RON'S REPORT

Hello boys and girls. Welcome to summer (finally). Before anything else, this is an important question. In July Tom and Dawn Brown take their vacation. Don and Trish Parkinson took over for the last show. As you know we had a large crowd which overwhelmed Don and Trish. Some of the table holders were missed when the table rent was collected. Anyone who was missed, please see Dawn at the September 8 show. Some fellows who realized they hadn't been collected at the show's end came out and paid as Don and Trish were doing the balance. Thanks you guys.

While we're speaking of shows, I'll mention the 2-day November 16-17 event. I will take prepaid reservations for this show during the Lions, August 17-18 show. The tables are $30 each for both days with a 2 table limit.

Now as I have already mentioned, the show was well attended, nearly 300 paid admissions. From 8:30 until 10:30 the hall was packed. The 10:30 time was when the sunshine got to the crowd and they started to thin out. It seems they arrived with a want list and filled it early and left. I saw a lot of guns being bagged. Don was kept busy cutting plastic tubing. I have to mention here, none of the three that I brought were amongst those that Don bagged. I think even Dave Worfolk had a good show. It seemed the folks around me were doing pretty well. Elder Jeske sold almost all of the items he put on the table. Close to the end of the show he realized how valuable some of his items were and sold one of the last ones to himself. That was just after giving a potential customer a sales pitch on its virtues. Then I heard him say, "I'm going to buy this myself." So he sold it to himself, folded it up and put it into a box under the table! Maybe I've seen it happen before?

Another interesting thing. George Clark brought in his latest acquisition, George Armstrong Custer's (second place at Little Big Horn) sword. It was nicely framed with a picture of George Custer and his brother. George Clark got all the documentation along with the framed sword. This wasn't the one from "Little Big Horn"; it was an earlier one, maybe Civil War, which Custer had given to his brother. I might add too, George was, and you could tell, very proud of it!

I guess you noticed a seldom seen member behind a table. Bill Mulder treated us to his presence and a table full of rifles offered for sale. I forgot to check on how well he did. Patrick Bird was his table neighbour displaying some very rare pistols and swords. Maybe we'll see more of these fellows in future. Ian Sim had two tables on the stage. It kind of surprised me that he was too busy to leave his table very often and walk around. Maybe he was just turning over a new leaf and tending to table business. Did I forget to mention, I brought four fine guns to the show? Well I did and took them right home again after the show!

Don't forget the two-day Lions show August 17 and 18. If you haven't yet booked your table, call Fred 604.765.5874. This is a really nice show and the best part is the dealers' breakfast buffet on Sunday morning. It always makes me forget the things I didn't sell Saturday.

I'm going to see if we can reproduce the picture of Mike Wallace (left) and Al Amundson (right) holding the large donation cheque that the gentleman from BC Cancer took when we made our annual donation.

The next show to report was July 21 at the Canadian Military Education Center's museum. It's been two years since they had a show so we were all happy to see them come to life again. As usual for that show there were hotdogs on the barbecue from mid-morning. I saw lots of folks having them for lunch. Dave Worfolk told me he had two and said they were both good. Later in the day there was corn on the cob for dessert, I guess.

George told me that they had 41 tables. It looked to me there were two "no shows". Because of no show last year, attendance was down from two years ago. Some fellows had lower sales than before. Jim Bennett told me he thought sales were light in the morning when I'd made one sale. Gord Frost came by my table; he said he thought sales were slow as he had only sold four guns! I brought five rifles and a shotgun for sale. A person picked up one of my rifles fairly early in the show. "Oh boy!" I thought. All he wanted was to ask me where the safety was. My previous excitement melted! Dave Mulligan had the table opposite mine. Last time there was a show there Dave had his best show. This time I asked how he'd done. He told me his gas was paid for, also his table rent and he had had a good time, so he was happy. He wasn't the only person I heard of who said the very same thing. It's a really nice show to attend, and not just for the hotdogs and coffee either. It was supposed to end at 1 p.m. Some started packing about 1:15 p.m. I started at 2 p.m. and there were still folks coming through the door. I talked Patrick Bird into attending as a visitor and he told me how much he enjoyed the event. I've since spoken to George. He told me the museum did make some money on the show. We are going to get together soon and plan another for late September. No, I'm not a member of the museum club; I just help him put the show together. This time I'll have more lead time and be able to give it a bit more exposure in our newsletter. I'm already looking forward to their next show. No, Grant, I don't think it would be worth your while to drive out for this one. You might consider March 8-9, 2014 though at Heritage Park in Chilliwack. By the next newsletter I'll have all the details. I've told George already that I'll need two tables.

Well boys and girls there isn't much more that I can tell you that you don't already know. With that, I'll sign off for now, so be good to each other.

Cheers,
Ron
